

Minutes of the Brown University Community Council (BUCC) Meeting
Tuesday, March 20, 2018
4:00 – 5:30 p.m.

Members: President Paxson, Provost Locke, Russell Carey, Eric Estes, Kayla Rosen, Anita Shukla, Shipra Vaishnava, Chelse-Amoy Steele, Doria Charlson, Alistair Tulloch, Shayna Kessel, Aixa Kidd, Joanne McEvoy, Michelle Nuey, Kate Tompkins, Linda Welsh, Lauren Allister, James Gardner, and Emily Maranjian were in attendance. Cass Cliatt, Beverly Ledbetter, Sarah Besky, Rachel Cassidy, Jennifer Lambe, Evelyn Lincoln, Matthew McGarrell, Kurt Teichert, Ryan Anderson, Jee Won Kang, Anuj Krishnamurthy, Alexis Rodriguez-Camacho, Robert Kashow, Michael Danielewicz, Amanda Liu, and Daniel Harrop were unable to attend.

The minutes of the February 13, 2018 meeting were approved.

Provost Locke discussed a proposal to enhance support for students with the highest financial aid. The proposal proposed by members of a working group addresses food insecurity and access to textbooks. To ensure food security the proposal recommends modifying financial aid packages to cover direct costs, requiring all incoming first year students to register for the 20 meals/week plan, and establishing a working group to evaluate student food insecurity at Brown. Beginning in 2018, a pilot project to develop and test options for students with the highest financial need to access textbooks using a swipe card method will be launched. President Paxson asked the Council and audience members what issues should be next addressed. Suggestions included summer earnings, financial aid package literacy, concerns of the $60K and below income group, and graduate and medical student food insecurity.

President Paxson reviewed the Faculty Resources Survey conducted in late 2017. It included nearly all the same questions from a survey conducted in 2012 in order to track changes. When compared to the 2012 survey, the 2017 survey responses showed increased satisfaction with benefits, computing support staff, support for teaching with technology, support for securing grants, support for professional travel, resources to support research, and the Institutional Review Board. Decreased satisfaction was shown in the quality of undergraduate students and diversity of faculty and staff. The comparison also showed an increase in the severity of constraints to conduct research, the importance of technology to teaching and research, and changes in the importance of certain library resources. Two major themes came out of the survey. The first theme of faculty being time crunched raised questions about whether Brown is too lean in terms of administrative support and has too many committees. The second theme of only a fraction of faculty being regularly engaged in discussions of research with graduate and faculty members raised questions about how to build a stronger “intellectual commons” and what are the impediments in doing so. Actions based on the 2017 survey include post-tenure sabbatical, changes to grant administration, and changes that allow for increased time for scholarship and grant-writing. Council members discussed and asked questions about faculty time constraints and the “intellectual commons.”

President Paxson concluded the meeting by speaking about the New England Association of Schools and College (NEASC) visiting team’s recent trip to campus to meet with faculty, staff, and students, as part of the University’s 10-year reaccreditation process. She also spoke about Brown’s continued commitment to providing support and resources for Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) students.

The next meeting of the Brown University Community Council will be held on Monday, April 30, 2018 from 12:00 – 1:30 pm in Alumnae Hall Auditorium.

Respectfully submitted,
Catherine Pincince, Secretary of the BUCC

Brown Faculty Resources Survey 2012 and 2017

Brown University Community Council meeting
March 20, 2018

History

- First survey conducted in 2012, as part of strategic planning
- Actions based on survey results:
  1. Post-tenure sabbatical
  2. Changes to grants administration
  3. Course-bunching, Wintersession, and other changes to increase time for scholarship and grant-writing
- Survey conducted in late 2017 has nearly all the same questions as 2012, so changes can be tracked over time
- More detail than in the meeting materials, i.e. results can be broken out by rank, discipline (humanities, social sciences, biological sciences, physical sciences) and HUG status

Response rates and representativeness

- Administered to tenured & tenure track faculty and lecturers at all ranks
- Response rates
  - 2012: 78%
  - 2017: 68%
- The demographics of the sample match the demographics of the regular faculty, based on gender, HUG status, disciplinary division, and rank

Summary of statistically significant changes

Increased Satisfaction with:

- Benefits
- Computing support staff
- Support for teaching with technology
- Support for securing grants
- Support for professional travel
- Resources to support research
- IRB

Decreased satisfaction with:

- Quality of undergraduate students
- Diversity of faculty
- Diversity of staff

Summary of statistically significant changes

- Increasing severity of constraints to conducting research:
  - Available time to conduct research
  - Adequate common space for meetings and seminars with colleagues
- Technology important to teaching and research:
  - Increasing need for support to develop course website or Canvas site
  - Decreasing need for training/assistance in use of equipment and software
- Library
  - Increased importance of electronic databases
  - Decreased importance of printed journals
- Greater use of University shuttle/walking between College Hill and Jewelry District, less use of private vehicles

Two major themes

1. Faculty are (still) time-crunched, with administrative and committee duties taking away from scholarship and teaching
  - Questions: Are we too “lean” in terms of academic administrative support? Do we have too many committees?
2. Although graduate education is important to faculty, the fraction of faculty who regularly engage in discussions of research with graduate students and other faculty members is not as high as we might expect
  - Questions: How can we build a stronger “intellectual commons” and, in doing so, provide stronger support to graduate students? What are the major impediments to doing so?
